

Record in the Commens Bibliography. Retrieved from http://www.commens.org/bibliography/journal_article/bellucci-francesco-2015-exploring-peirces-speculative-grammar-immediate, 18.04.2025.

Type: Article in Journal
Author: Bellucci, Francesco
Title: Exploring Peirce's speculative grammar: The immediate object of a sign
Year: 2015
Journal: Sign Systems Studies
Volume: 43
Issue: 4
Pages: 399-415
Keywords: Immediate Object, Dynamical Object
Abstract: The paper argues against what I call the "Fregean interpretation" of Peirce's distinction between the immediate and the dynamic object of a sign, according to which Peirce's dynamic object is akin to Frege's Bedeutung, while Peirce's immediate object is akin to Frege's Sinn. After having exposed the Fregean interpretation, I briefly reconstruct the genesis of Peirce's notion of immediate object in his semiotic writings of the years 1904-1909 and defend the view that, according to Peirce, only propositions have immediate objects.
ISSN: 14064243
DOI: 10.12697/SSS.2015.43.4.02
Language: English