

Indefinite

1906 | The Basis of Pragmaticism | EP 2:394; CP 5.448 n.

The October remarks made the proper distinction between the two kinds of indeterminacy, viz: indefiniteness and generality, of which the former consists in the sign's not sufficiently expressing itself to allow of an indubitable determinate interpretation, while the latter turns over to the interpreter the right to complete the determination as he pleases. [—]

The October remarks, with a view to brevity, omitted to mention that both indefiniteness and generality might primarily affect either the logical breadth or the logical depth of the sign to [which] they belong.

"The October remarks" is a reference to the Monist article 'Issues of Pragmaticism' (1905)