

News item. Retrieved from
<http://www.commens.org/news/item/pragmatism-today-perspectives-cognition-education-and-society>, 15.04.2025.

---

Category: Academic Meeting

Title: Pragmatism Today: Perspectives on Cognition, Education and Society

Description: "...we are doubtless far from realizing the potential capacity of education as a constructive agency of improving society", John Dewey wrote in Democracy and Education (1916).

Celebrating the centennial of Dewey's classic, we hereby invite scholars to meet and debate the status of pragmatism today and how pragmatism has influenced and still influences educational theory and practice. Overall issues are how pragmatic approaches to education have contributed to the improvement of society and whether pragmatic approaches to cognition and society have contributed to the improvement of education.

Key notes: Mark Johnson, Andrea English, Norbert Wiley

Registration deadline: November 13, 2016

Organizers: Danish School of Education, Aarhus University, Denmark

Place: Aarhus University

Link: Registration and Details

Keywords: Education, Pragmatism